MR. LEASE OF KANSAS.

Being a Sequel to Unknown Wives of Great Men.

A CLEVER PARODY BY "PUCK"

On the Bind of an Interview Frequently meen in the Papers, Nowadays.

The last number of "Puck" contains the following amusing article concerning our Mr. Lease of Kansas:

Mr. Lease received me cordially, but when I told him I had called to obtain information about his home life and his youthful days he blushed prettily and said: "I don't think my wife would like Gazette), to pass unnoticed; although to have these things talked about in the did it reflect upon no one except Capt. newspapers. My father objected strongly to that there was no vacancy in the Beloit her frequent visits to our house, but op- school when Miss Parker went there and her frequent visits to our house, but op-position never smothered true love. When my father declared he would never let us marry, Mary settled the matter in quick order by driving up to the house one night and carrying me off to the minister. And I have never regretted that elopement. She told me she would be a famous woman some day and would bring me up in the world with her, and she has kept her word."

"Of course you are fond of her public triumphs?" I suggested.

"Indeed I am," replied Mr. Lease, with a tender smile. "Here in my home with my children I watch her career, and feel proud that I am blessed to be the husband of such a woman." "Do not her public duties separate you a great deal?" I asked.

"Yes," he replied, "but that does not lessen our affection. I make home always a pleasant place for her to come to; and when she is here I take care that she is not disturbed by the children or by household cares. That is the secret of our happy home-life. When she comes in late I do not worry her with questions, or talk to her about my little home troubles. I have a nice, warm meal ready for her, and keep a smile on my face, no matter how weary I am. Oh, if all husbands would act in the same way, wives would stay at home more!"

"Do you try to be a companion to your wife in her public life?" I asked. "Well," answered Mr. Lease, modestly, "of course I cannot understand all the great questions she deals with, but I try to understand them to please her. And when she rewards me with a word of encouragement, I feel that I am amply repaid."

At this point a child's cry was heard from the next room, and Mr. Lease ex-cused himself and terminated the inter-

In her letter she is quoted as saying: "Can you not find some way to stop such silly talk?" Does not the lady know that four years ago the Republicans themselves declared that a statutory enactment in the matter would be unconsti-tutional and that it would take a vote of the people to decide it?"

A DEFENSE OF WAIT'S NIECE.

Mrs. Anna Wait on the Trail of the Beloit Gazette's Informant.

To the Editor of the State Journal: SIR: I cannot allow the article in the Journal of August 21, headed "Wait's Crazy Niece" (copied from the Beloit Gazette), to pass unnoticed; although Wait I should do so, as we have the last "But," I said, "everybody knows that is too well known in Kansas to sustain you have helped your wife on in her sucwhen the name and character of another like to know something about you. Tell me," I went on impulsively, "how your wife came to marry you."

"Well," said Mr. Lease thoughtfully, hood because she is too noble to accept "I don't see how it can do any harm. It even from her relatives what she is able was this way: I was the only son of a weil-off farmer in Jefferson county, and all the girls wanted me." Here Mr. Lease blushed and smiled reminiscently. Lease blushed and smiled reminiscently.

"I was in doubt," he continued, "till lowing statements, signed by two members of the board of charities, place the stigma of falsehood upon the statements stigma of falsehood upon the statements.

that Capt Wait took her there:

There are three correct statements in the Gazette article, viz: That the lady is thirty-five years of age, has been in Kansas five years, and that at about eighteen years of age she had a serious illness, since which she has not been strong; and will add that it was an attack of pneumonia so severe as to entirely cost her the use of her left lungquite a severe loss to a person dependent upon her own efforts for her support; but what is such an affliction to the party so anxious to crush Captain Wait as is the author of the Gazette article, whoever it is.

During the five years she has been in Kansas she has attended school five months; attended normal institute three months, taught school in one district two years, fifteen months in one district; set type in the office of the Lincoln Beacon nineteen months, canvassed for books eight months. She holds two second and one first grade teacher's certificates, grading among the who was reported to have gone over to highest in Lincoln county, and a second the Populists, on account of his views on grade in Mitchell county; a very good silver has written a letter to the Mo. fecord indeed for a "half-witted" person to make. It is useless to pursue this subject further. But, say, can any one give a plausible excuse for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease's late visit to Beloit, about a week after the rest of the board of charities had been there, and transacted all the business for the current month?
